

GOLD COAST HOTA CINEMA

A big hit at the 2018 Alliance Française French Film Festival,
Blandine Lenoir's warm-hearted romantic comedy

AURORE from 17 May for a theatrical season.

A huge blending of humour, truthfulness and sensitivity, the film centres on a middle-aged woman in the midst of major personal and professional life changes.

Fifty-year-old Aurore Tabort (Agnès Jaoui), separated from her husband and newly unemployed, discovers she is to become a grandmother. She feels as if her own life has come to a standstill, and that she is slowly being pushed away to the fringes of society.

But after bumping into the great love of her youth, Totoche, (Thibault de Montalembert) something changes...

Aurore wonders if it might still be possible to embark on something new....

On screen from start to finish, actress and co-writer Agnès Jaoui is the heart and soul of this witty, feel-great film.

She brings a touching, true-to-life poignancy to an endearing portrait of the resilience of womanhood, as an everyday heroine on the road to (re)discovery.

"Yes! There is life after 50. Agnès Jaoui proves it beautifully."
